Travel enthusiasts wanted!

Do you want to explore the exciting world of aircraft rescue and firefighting and do you want to actively contribute to building a dynamic company? Are you ready to take your passion for firefighting to a global level? Then we are looking for you!

To strengthen our team, we are looking for a

Instructor for Aircraft Firefighting/Plant Operator (m/f/d) on a part-time basis.

Location: Europe

ARFF-SERVICES GMBH, founded in 2020, offers exciting training and services in the field of aircraft rescue and firefighting (ARFF). Our international customers include airports, authorities and aviation-specific companies.

Your responsibilities:

- Conduct on-site training at our customers' locations
- Operate our innovative mobile aircraft fire simulator during training sessions
- Document and evaluate the training
- Assist with additional projects and tasks

What we offer:

- Comprehensive on-boarding and high quality training in aircraft firefighting
- Opportunities for professional and personal development
- A motivated team with flat hierarchies
- High quality protective equipment
- Fair compensation
- A responsible, varied and participative role

Your profile:

- You have basic firefighting training
- You are fit to work under respiratory protection
- You are communicative and speak very good English (other languages are an advantage)
- You have a valid driving licence
- You have a hands-on mentality and are able to work independently and customer focused.

Willingness to travel:

Our headquarters are in Leipzig, Germany, but training takes place at our customers' locations around the world. A high level of willingness to travel is therefore required, regardless of where you live.
